BULK PLANT LOCATION BRINGS STRONG WORDS FROM CITY - HIRED ZONING CONSULTANT

PAHOKEE — If the public, not to speak of public officials, tolerates the placing of the new bulk oil station in the downtown business district, it is asking for danger, heavy truck traffic, and piece-by-piece collapse of orderly development, the expert whom the city employed last spring as zoning consultant said this week.

On the eve of a public hearing set for Monday at 8 p.m. at City Hall, to consider spot-zoning a portion of the E. Main St. business district to allow Orange State Oil Co. to put a new bulk plant, Consultant Frederick H. Bair, jr., expressed his views in a letter to Councilman Blanche Armstrong.

Mrs. Armstrong, who has declared her opposition to rezoning to allow the proposed large new plant to replace a smaller old plant already there, wrote to Bair in order, she said, to get some expert advice on the matter.

She asked his opinion on putting large storage tanks near a theatre and schools, and wrote "Do other cities allow them to be put in the heart of town?" and inquired as to the safety factor involved.

"Do Not Know Why"

Bair wrote back "I do not know why a company would want a bulk station in a central business district in the first place—I assume that this is a deal involving a particular piece of property which somebody can make some money by selling to a bulk station operator—but the shortsightedness of the prospective operator should not be echoed by a similar lack of common sense on the part of the public officials, nor should it be tolerated by the people who elect public officials."

"If a major abuse like this is permitted within a few months after passage of the ordinance, what assurance have those who depend on the zoning ordinance for protection of orderly development that the whole thing will collapse piece by piece?" Bair queried.

The zoning expert, who worked in the planning field in New York state and the west before coming to Florida, brought up another aspect, as well.

Other Use

He noted that "when the matter of providing off-street parking space in connection with new business uses in the downtown area was discussed, we were told that land was now so valuable in this area that such a requirement was out of the question." That being the case, the letter pointed out, "certainly an alternate sale on the property involved should be possible."

NURSE NEEDED BUT RARDIN SAYS NO

BULLETIN

At a special session yesterday afternoon, the County Commission decided to put "the Jensen case" on its agenda for consideration at Monday's regular meeting.

BY JANE RIEKER

Political footballism in the Glades reached a new low this week when the public health department was deprived of a highly-qualified nurse because of the personal vendetta of County Commissioner Paul Rardin against her husband.

Rardin refused to sign the papers necessary for the appointment of Mrs. E. A. Jensen, RN, of Pahokee, as a staff nurse serving the public health department at Belle Glade.

Despite the questions of Dr. C. L. Brumback, director of the Palm Beach County Health Department, no reason was given for the return of the papers unsigned from the County Commission office, the HD head said.

BG C. OF C. STARTS FALL

BELLE GLADE — Directors of the Chamber of Commerce resumed their regular meetings Wednesday after a summer recess, and had a busy evening of it.

Under the new by-laws, four directors are to be elected by Sept. 30, the end of the C-C year, to replace William Graber, Doug Wooten, William Rhodes, and W. C. Bamford. President George Wedgworth appointed S. K. Smith, jr. and Claude Jones a committee to confer with contractors and builders on study of the Southern building code; Bob Lanier and Dale Ellis to begin outlining plans for the Everglades Fair; and reported himself and a committee working on a bulletin board to be put in a West Palm Beach hotel.

Ellis was elected a director to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Mary Foy, whose resignation was accepted with regret. The advertising committee's budget was accepted, with commendation to the committee. The board set the resumption of the C-C coffee hour to begin after the installation of new directors.

13,000 Frozen Turkeys Truck Into Canal

SOUTH BAY — A cargo of 13,000 turkeys flew into the canal northwest of here on Rte. 27 Wednesday morning, when a semi-trailer driven by Bobby Williams, of Lakeland, ran off the road into the drink.

Williams suffered shoulder injuries, and was released on $25 bond pending a hearing on the truck accident today.

It took three wreckers nine hours to get the truck out of the canal, starting Wednesday morning and continuing until 4 that afternoon.

When E. A. Jensen called the local commissioner to ask the reason for his refusal to sign the papers, Rardin told him that it was because of the way Jensen had "treated" him for the past several years. "I didn't get to ask any more, because then he hung up," Jensen told OBSERVER.

Jensen is one of a group of Glades pilots who have tried fruitlessly for years to get the County Commission, particularly the Glades Commissioner, to provide hanger facilities and landing lights at the airport at Pahokee.

News of Rardin's refusal to sign the papers was brought to Mrs. Jensen in person by Dr. Brumback Tuesday afternoon. She had already resigned as supervisor of nurses at Everglades Memorial Hospital to take the health department position, similar to one she had held in Pahokee from the time of the organization of the health department in 1948 until her resignation in 1952.

Dr. Brumback, who said a replacement is badly needed in the Belle Glade office, said "We asked her to come back to work for us because her work had been satisfactory—we wouldn't have asked her otherwise."

Nursing personnel for the Belle Glade office is in such short supply at present that the Pahokee-Canal Point area public health department nurses have been serving there part time.

Brumback said that four signatures are required on the form for appointment of health department professional personnel—that of the state merit system supervisor, the state board of health, himself, and a member of the County Commission. All signatures except that of a commissioner were on the paper, he said.

When OBSERVER Correspondent Ben Roberts in West Palm Beach asked County

WHAT ABOUT KEY DEER?
Officials of the Fish and Wildlife Service here are worried about the welfare of Florida's Key Deer. These deer are the smallest of all American deer species, standing only about 27 inches high when fully grown and weighing about 30 pounds. Their habitat lies on a dozen islands that form the chain between the mainland of Florida and Key West.

Latest population count, made since January of this year, is 112. That's better than four years ago when there were only about 30. It looked then like the species was well on the way to extinction.

Even so, things are not progressing the way the conservationists would like. The deer are protected by law, but they are living on rented ground—under a lease that can be broken on 90 days' notice. The Fish and Wildlife folks pay the rent but don't like the arrangement. They can't make long range future plans for their little friends.

Champions of the deer would like to see a permanent game refuge set up. The Fish and Wildlife people think that a tourist attraction could be established that would return a tidy sum to the county.

According to figures in the Wildlife office, something like 18,000 persons visited these Keys between January and April of this year. They believe many more would stop if tourist facilities were installed there—and visitors could get a look at some of the deer.

What Keys do they live on? A good road map might show you some of the Keys, but it won't have all of them named. Largest is Big Pine; others: Big Torch, Little Pine, No-name, Cudjoe, Ramrod, Nockemdown, Middle Torch, Little Torch, Howe, Summerland and Annette.

Veg. - Pasture Rotation Studies

Many vegetable growers have a virgin soils "migration system" in order to escape certain diseases such as nematode, insects and weed problems. Cattlemen, who own much of the native soils used for tomato production, frequently follow vegetables with improved pasture. In September Florida Grower and Rancher, this situation, under study for more extensive knowledge, is analyzed by specialists at the Indian River Field Laboratory, Fort Pierce.

The study is being undertaken for South Florida soils. As the work proceeds, much of it will have to be accumulated in the form of a guide as farmers and ranchers begin to adopt and adapt the rotating system described in detail in the article.

WINTER FEED BEING READIED IN OSCEOLA

KISSIMMEE—Cattlemen and dairymen are busy putting up hay and silage for winter feeding in Osceola County.

A survey of five ranches in the county disclosed that they are putting up approximately 3,000 tons of silage from grass and higer. All but one of them is using the trench type silo. The other man is putting up his silage in the conventional type silo, reports James Smith, assistant agent.

BY SCHATZI

Somethin's cookin', all right. In Boss No. 2's mail this week came a dispatch which caused her to ruminate. This was of short duration, however, and she came sidling over to me and said maybe you could give us some publicity on this.

Publicity being a word I hate and a practice which causes our office mail to get out of hand all the time, I gave the boss the cold, whites-of-my-eyes look.

Nothing daunted, she waved a piece of blue paper at me and said much as you like to eat, I think you should be glad to splurge a couple of lines about "Who Says We Can't Cook?"

Besides, think of the lady readers, said the boss, firmly.

Well, I know when the only way to stop a lot of chatter is to get to work—so I read the blue piece of paper.

It was a news release from the Women's National Press Club in Washington announcing a 200-page plastic book containing recipes with a story. The recipes were all submitted by club members, and were gotten in line of duty, from personal experiences and assignments all over the world.

The book, says the release, won't be available until late fall, after—naturally—a publication party.

But it is the "famous personages" angle that intrigues me. No clue is given to what personages suggested what recipe to what lady WNPC member.

I have a great hope that come publication, all of us females can settle down to a batch of recipes like—well, say:

"How I Cooked My Goose," by Joe McCarthy; "Contract Stew," by ex-Air Secretary Harold Talbott; "Administration Roast," by Harry S. Truman; "Welfare Chops," by Oveta Culp Hobby . . . .

That sort of thing.

I can hardly wait.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

By Men. George Smathers

WASHINGTON—Perhaps what could best be considered as the "heartbeat" of the Senator's office is a gray bag which is delivered three times a day and contains the many pieces of mail including circulars, newspapers, and a volume of letters from persons of every walk of life concerning a vast variety of matters.

A few weeks ago, Senator Smathers received a letter from Mrs. Ruth M. Calvo of Tampa, who wrote about her 16-year-old son, David, and his great wish to become an honorary member of the United States Air Force. Even though David is a victim of muscular dystrophy and bed-ridden a great deal of the time, he is intelligent and alert, and derives much pleasure from his hobby of watching, studying, and drawing airplanes.

After the Senator had read Mrs. Calvo's letter, he consulted with one of his secretaries whose main work had to do with the various military departments, and whose own father is afflicted with the same disease as David. When inquiry of the Air Force revealed that they did not have honorary memberships, the Senator then wrote to the Civil Air Patrol which in turn contacted the Florida CAP approving a certificate of honorary membership, as well as a pair of wings, to be presented to David.

The presentation was made by Colonel Joseph F. Moody, Wing Commander of the Florida Civil Air Patrol. A letter was recently received from Mrs. Calvo expressing her gratitude, and relating how thrilled and happy this had made her son. But we don't believe Senator Smathers needs any other thanks than the shining eyes and happy smile on David's face as shown in a picture taken during the presentation.

New EMH Staffers Named

PAHOKEE—Everglades Memorial Hospital Administrator Jesse W. Reel reports that Miss Shirley Watson, RN, formerly of New Orleans, is a new member of the nursing staff of the local hospital. Miss Billie Nell Stokes of Canal Point is assisting Mrs. Bill Easterly in the office.

Rainbows To Meet Mon.

The Pahokee Rainbow Girls have scheduled a meeting postponed from Monday, Sept. 5, to Monday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. Election of officers will be held with Miss Betty Harrison, retiring worthy advisor, presiding.

NEW PUBLIC PICNIC SPOT

PAHOKEE—Four new tables with benches attached have been placed on the dike at Lake Okeechobee near the pine trees west of City Hall, for use of the public, according to report made at Beta Omicron chapter meeting of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

These were constructed by members of the Pahokee FFA under the supervision of Advisor Loren O'Neal, and the materials were purchased by the sorority.

Members of the chapter plan to have a picnic Saturday evening, and use the new equipment. Members and guests will first meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Wilkinson on E. Main St. and bicycle to the party site.

PATROL SUPERVISOR

Inspector Reid Clifton, former Pahokee police officer and a charter member of the Florida Highway Patrol will continue with the patrol instead of retiring in November, he has announced in Tallahassee.

Clifton, known in the Glades as "a mountain of a man," became field supervisor of FHP in July 1953. His decision not to retire, he said, was prompted by the desire of Director H. N. Kirkman that he continue his service with the department, and because of his personal reluctance to leave FHP.

Lay Readers At Nativity

Otto Blech, senior warden of Holy Nativity Episcopal Church of Pahokee, and Curtis Chase, member of the vestry, will serve as lay readers for the services on Sept. 11, 18, and 25, at 11 o'clock in the absence of the rector, Rev. M. W. Hainlin, who is on vacation.

Silage Reaches Cows Easy Way . . . Job Handled By Made-On-Farm Device

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

The young man standing beside the collection of chains, pulleys and other mechanical components in the picture below has given both himself and his 22 milkers a welcome break. He saved himself a lot of work, and provided the cows with all the silage they want—the easy way.

Above—cows are shown eating their fill from manger filled automatically. To the right—farmer is pictured at mechanized end of his homemade silage feeder.

Although he still pitches silage—just because his twin silos aren't suitable for the installation of unloaders—this Virginia farmer's scooping chores end at the chutes. From that point, silage moves automatically into the barn by means of a conveyor operated by a 1 horsepower motor.

This "made on the farm" feeder is 60 feet long, including a 10-foot section which extends outside the barn under the chutes. Two chains, separated by metal cleats about 2 feet apart, drag the silage into the 3-foot wide manger. The section outside the barn has a solid floor. There is no floor in the conveyor inside the barn, the chains "riding" on 2x2-inch wooden strips fastened to the manger framing.

The conveyor line is located approximately 18 inches above the manger, the sides of which are about 12 inches high. Silage is evenly distributed along the entire length of the manger as the moving cleats round off the silage as it piles up to the level of the chains. When the manger is filled the motor is shut off.

Now a look at the driving mechanism.

A 3-inch pulley on the motor is belted to an 18-inch pulley attached to one end of an old truck transmission, which is locked in sub-low gear. This provides a speed reduction ratio of transmission of 7 to 1, making a total speed reduction of 42 to 1.

At the other end of the truck transmission is a 4-inch sprocket which drives the chain. This arrangement provides a conveyor speed of approximately 42 feet a minute. As may be noted from the illustrations, the dual chains are continuous, with the return made on supports beneath the manger bed. This bed is 2 feet above the barn floor. Manger supports extend from floor to ceiling and are spaced far enough apart so that the floor can be easily cleaned.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, Belle Glade CHRISTIAN SCIENCE GROUP, Canal Point

The vital importance of understanding God as the source of all true substance will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance" will include the following passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (335:12): "Spirit is the only substance, the invisible and indivisible infinite God. Things spiritual and eternal are substantial. Things material and temporal are insubstantial."

The indestructible nature of spiritual substance is also stressed in selections to be read from the Bible, including the following: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it" (Eccl. 3:14 to 2d.).

The Golden Text is from John (6:27): "Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed."

NURSE —

Commissioner Kenneth Foster about Rardin's refusal to sign. Foster expressed ignorance of the whole matter. After Roberts reported the facts to Foster, the latter took them that afternoon to several other members of the Commission at a meeting on other matters. When Jensen called Commissioner Roy Michael on Thursday, Michael said the situation "would have to be looked into."

However, nowhere could Roberts find a procedure empowering refusal or approval of an appointee candidate by one single commissioner, without consultation with other commissioners.

Apparently, Roberts reported, it is the practice of the Commission—each member of which now, by law, functions county-wide—to incorporate such appointments into their official minutes if approval is given by the commissioner representing the district concerned. If disapproval is given by that one commissioner, the matter drops and apparently is never recorded in the official business, Roberts reported.

Foster told Roberts Thursday morning that Rardin told the commissioners upon their inquiry that he felt he wouldn't be able to work with Mrs. Jensen, and that he didn't know her but knew her husband.

Chapter 154.04 of the state statutes provides that health department personnel may be employed by the board of commissioners of a given county provided the state health department approves.

Nowhere does the law state that a lone commissioner of any board has the power to act singlehandedly on the matter.

The American Legion will be in charge of the policing and supervision of the football field during the coming games. A. E. Funderburk was present as the Legion representative. ## Harrell OK In Big Dredge Dip

BEAN CITY — A. J. Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harrell, is back here following the sinking of the gigantic dredge Fairlee, which was a well-known sight the past year at 20-Mile Bend, and of which he was a crew member.

The big dredge, being towed to South America for a job, sprung a leak and sank between Cuba and Jamaica. The crew of 16, including Harrell, was rescued by a lifeboat from the tug pulling the dredge.

According to reports, the dredge sank very rapidly, and almost pulled the tug down with it before the connecting lines could be released. The Fairlee was insured for more than a million dollars.

Bair also pointed out that "a very sizeable and well-located industrial district was set aside in your ordinance, away from the downtown section, with rail facilities, and with good truck access. That is where a bulk station belongs."

His concluding advice was "If it is a question of 'downtown or nothing,' the answer should without any question be 'Nothing.'"
